Foreword

The 2014 Myanmar Population and Housing Census was conducted in March 2014 by the Ministry of Immigration and Population (MOIP). It was supported by the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) and development partners, namely Australia, Finland, Germany, Italy, Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, the United Kingdom and the United States of America. This is the first census in over three decades; the last censuses being in 1983 and 1973. This census was undertaken within the provisions of the Population and Housing Census Law enacted in July 2013. Its results are vital to the planning and development of Myanmar. The results will inform on-going reforms, policy making and planning for development at all levels.

The results of the 2014 Census have been published so far in three volumes. The first was the Preliminary Results (Census Volume 1), which was released in August 2014. The Census Main Results were launched in May 2015 by H.E. U Thein Sein, the President of the Union of the Republic of Myanmar. These included The Union Report (Census Report Volume 2), Highlights of the Main Results (Census Report Volume 2-A), and the reports of each of the 15 States and Regions (Census Report Volume 3-(1 to 15)).

Dissemination of census data is now taking place across the whole country, so that existing and potential users understand how to interpret, use and apply the data in prioritizing needs for planning and services improvement at all administrative levels. These events have involved participation from government, parliamentarians, civil society organizations, political parties, media and leaders of religious, ethnic and communities, among others.

The report on Occupation and Industry is now being released as part of the Main Results (Census Report Volume 2-B). In the case of this report, coding of open-ended responses on questions related to occupation and industry was still underway at the time when the main results were published.

The Government of Myanmar extends its sincere gratitude and thanks to development partners for providing technical, financial and administrative support throughout the census process. Thanks also go to the MOIP Permanent Secretary and his team, who have authored this report. Last but not least, the people of Myanmar deserve special praise for their participation in the census. It is their answers that form the basis for the data in these reports. The Government as a whole hope that the data contained in the census reports will contribute to improving the welfare of all people in Myanmar.

Chapter 1: Background Information

1.1. Introduction

The most recent census in Myanmar was undertaken in 2014. The census employed a de facto methodology where, with some exceptions, individuals were enumerated at the place they were residing on the 29th of March 2014 (Census Night). This census was undertaken after more than three decades; the last censuses were conducted in 1983 and 1973. In addition to providing benchmark data on demographic and socio-economic characteristics of the population and households, censuses are unique sources of information for small geographical areas. Such disaggregated information is vital for planning and decision-making at Union and sub-national levels. Additional data uses include decisions in the allocation of resources during the national budget process; the review of administrative and political boundaries; and the positioning of social infrastructures such as schools, health facilities and roads. The census also provides data to monitor and report on national and international development commitments, including national development plans, the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), and the International Conference on Population and Development Programme of Action (ICPD-PoA), among others.

The 2014 Census results have been released in two stages to date. First the provisional results were published and launched (Census Volume 1) in August 2014. This was followed by the publishing and launch of the main results in May 2015. The main results were in two series of publications: Census Volume 2, contained detailed information at the Union and State/Region levels, and Census Volume 3, comprised a report for each of the 15 States and Regions. Each of the State and Region reports contained information at the State/Region, district and township levels. In addition, several other publications were released as part of the main results. They included the Highlights Report, a non-technical report summarizing the salient features of the Union Report, a wall data sheet with indicators down to the district level, and flyers highlighting key findings at the State and Region levels. All these reports are available in printed copies and online at <http://www.dop.gov.mm/moip/> and <http://myanmar.unfpa.org/census/>.

The information in the above publications includes population size and characteristics; population size of capitals of States and Regions; social characteristics; migration; details on former members of households living outside of Myanmar; disability; births, infant and under-five deaths; type of identity card held by individuals; education characteristics; economic activity status; housing conditions and availability of household amenities.

This report “Census Report Volume 2-B: The Union Report: Occupation and Industry” is a supplement to The Union Report, Volume 2. It contains information on activity status, occupation and industry. This information was not released in earlier publications because coding of occupation and industry, a lengthy process, could not be completed in time for the launch of the main results.

This report is divided into four parts. Part one contains background to the 2014 Myanmar Census, and information already published from the census. Part two presents the key findings of the results with interpretations and illustrations. Part three contains the detailed statistical tables, which include comprehensive information on Occupation and Industry at the Union and State/Region levels. Part four are annexes that include the census questionnaire as well as a glossary of terms and concepts used in this publication and in the census processes. Main groupings and detailed classifications of occupation and industry are also contained in this part of the report.

Extensive efforts were undertaken to ensure that the results of the census conformed to international standards. These efforts included the formation of an International Technical Advisory Board (ITAB) comprising 15 experts from different countries. The ITAB was involved in providing advice and recommendations at all stages of the census. In addition, community census support groups, data user/producer consultations, and a well-developed management structure oversaw the planning and implementation of the census.

The methodology of the 2014 Census has been described in detail in the Union Census Report, 2015 (Department of Population, Census Report Volume 2). This publication can be referred to for a detailed description of the processes of planning and implementation of the census.

1.2. Areas of non and/or under enumeration

As published in The Union Report Census Report Volume 2<sup>1</sup>, enumeration did not take place for households and persons in some parts of three states in the country. Procedures were then carefully developed and applied in order to estimate the number of persons not counted.

In certain parts of Rakhine State, a significant number of people were not counted because they were not allowed to self-identify using a name that is not recognized by the Government. The Government made this decision in the interest of security and to avoid the possibility of violence occurring due to inter-communal tensions.

In Kayin and Kachin States, where ethnic armed groups were present at the time of enumeration, some villages and inhabited areas were not enumerated.

Analysis of persons who were not enumerated in the above three areas revealed that an estimated total of 1,206,353 people were not counted in the census. This includes an estimate of 1,090,000 persons residing mostly in the northern parts of Rakhine State, 69,753 individuals living in Kayin State and 46,600 persons living in Kachin State.

At the Union level, the non-enumerated persons represent 2.3 per cent of the overall population. It is important to take into consideration that in Rakhine State, where the number of non-enumerated persons is significant; the indicators for this State and its districts are only representative of two-thirds of the state population. In the rest of the States/Regions and at the Union level, the indicators are representative. The number of the non-enumerated population was added to the overall census population as reported in the main results. Therefore, while the main results factored in the estimated non-enumerated persons into the total population, the analysis and presentation of the detailed information on occupation and industry reflects only the enumerated population in this report.

Chapter 2: Highlights of the Results

2.1. Total Count from the Census

The census reported the total population of Myanmar at 51,486,253 as of 29th March, 2014. Of these, 24,824,586 were males and 26,661,667 were females. Of the total population, an estimated 1,206,353 persons were not enumerated in three states of the country. The census enumerated a total population of 50,279,900 and analysis of the data is based on the information collected from the enumerated population only.

The total population size showed an increase of 46 per cent since the 1983 census. The annual population growth rate was 0.89 per cent between 2003 and 2014. The decennial growth rate from 1973 reveals a consistent decline from 2.02<sup>2</sup> per cent per annum during 1973-1983, to 1.41 per cent per annum during 1983-1993, and 1.38 per cent in the 1993-2003 period<sup>3</sup>. The distribution of the population by state and region shows that the most populous regions are Yangon, Ayeyawady and Mandalay, which together account for 38 per cent of the total population. The least populated states are Kayah, Chin and Nay Pyi Taw, together only accounting for 3.74 per cent of the overall population.

A close look at the population data by broad labour force age groups reveals that those under 15 years of age, 15-64 years, and 65 years and over account for 28.6 per cent, 65.6 per cent and 5.8 per cent of the total population, respectively. People under 15 years (child population) numbered 14,399,569, the population between 15 and 64 years numbered 32,982,768 (productive age), while those aged 65 years and over (aged population) numbered 2,897,563. These three age groups form the backbone of this report. Trend analysis across the last three censuses shows that the proportion of these broad age groups has changed significantly since 1973, when the child population was 41.5 per cent, the productive population 54.9 per cent and the aged population only 3.7 per cent. This trend is depicted in Figure 2. The percentage of the population in the productive age group (15-64 years) has increased substantially. In 1983, 57.5 per cent of the population was between 15 and 64 years of age, by 2014 this had increased to 65.6 per cent.

<sup>4</sup> a) The numbers in blue are estimates of people who were not enumerated in the census. The numbers in bold italics are the sum of the enumerated and the estimated population in the affected states.

b) The numbers in this table do not include Myanmar people living outside the country at the time of the census, except those who were working in Myanmar diplomatic missions abroad; this population of 972 people is included in the total for Nay Pyi Taw.

2.2. Employment Status

The analysis of economic characteristics data collected in the census uses the standard labour force framework, as prescribed by the International Labour Organization (ILO). The framework categorizes the population into mutually exclusive groups, namely: the economically active population commonly referred to as the labour force, and the economically inactive population. The labour force consists of the members of the population aged 15 years and over who were working during the reference period, and it also includes those who were not working but were actively seeking work. The economically inactive population covers the population aged 15 years and over, those neither working nor seeking work. These include: those not working but not looking for work, those incapacitated to work, unpaid household workers, retired and full-time students. Information on occupation and industry was collected only for those who were working. The occupation data was collected and processed based on the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO 2008) at 3 digit level, while industry was analyzed using the International Standard Industrial Classification of All Economic Activities (ISIC Rev 4) at 2 digit level.

Data on occupation and industry in this report are presented by major groupings. This is referred to as one (1) digit level by the ILO which for example in the case of occupation is defined as a set of jobs whose main tasks and duties are characterized by a high degree of similarity. Major groups are summarized from detailed sub-groups (for both occupation and industry). For each major group a list of detailed sub-groups is given in Annex 3 for Occupation, and Annex 4 for Industry.

The activity status of the population was determined in respect to a 12 month reference period (usual activity status). The category “employed” included those who in the previous 12 months to census night reported to have worked for 6 months or more, or were working for a period that was likely to last for more than 6 months. This included those who worked for pay in government or the private sector, those who were self-employed and therefore worked on “own or family businesses” and those who worked on “own or family agricultural holdings”. Persons who were on attachment (interns and apprentices) and volunteers were also included in this category. This information was collected from respondents who lived in both conventional households and institutions.

According to the employment status of employed persons aged 15 years and over (21.87 million), the proportion of employees (both government and private organizations) was 39 per cent. Those who were self-employed (employers and own account workers) accounted for 44.3 per cent, and contributing family workers accounted for 16.9 per cent. Analysis by gender shows that males are more likely (41.1%) to be employees than females (35.5%). Similarly, more males (5.8%) are employers than females (3.1%). On the other hand, females are more likely to be working as contributing family workers than males; about 26.1 per cent of females compared to 10.9 per cent of males. These analyses are shown in Table 2.

Table 2: Number of employed persons aged 15 years and over by employment status and sex

Status in Employment	Number			Proportion
	Both Sexes	Male	Female	Both Sexes	Male	Female
Total	21,872,539	13,307,050	8,565,489	100	100	100
Employees (government)	1,346,111	770,640	575,471	6.2	5.8	6.7
Employees (private organizations and other entities)	7,166,088	4,698,466	2,467,622	32.8	35.3	28.8
Employers	1,042,235	775,197	267,038	4.8	5.8	3.1
Own account workers	8,629,863	5,611,778	3,018,085	39.5	42.2	35.2
Contributing family workers	3,688,242	1,450,969	2,237,273	16.9	10.9	26.1

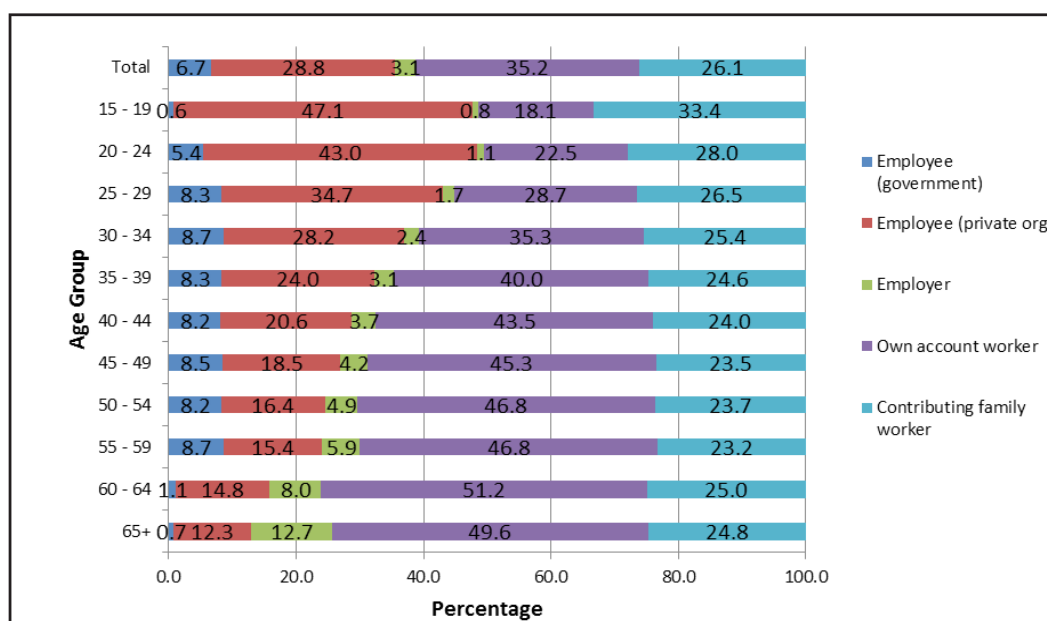

Comparing the proportion of employed persons aged 15 and over by employment status, sex and age group shows that among males, the proportion of “own account worker” exceeds 50 per cent in each 5-year age group from the age of 40 years. The proportion of “own account worker” goes up as age increases. On the other hand, the proportion of males who are employees (private organizations and other entities) is highest in the age group 15-19 years, but this proportion declines with an increase in age. This may mean that people change from being employed to becoming own account workers as they mature. The same pattern is followed by females whose employment status was mainly “employee (private)” followed by “own account worker”. There were more females in the category “contributing family worker” compared to males. In total, over 26 per cent of females who were employed worked as “contributing family worker”. This was in contrast to males, who reported very low proportions of “contributing family worker”, except for those aged between 15 to 24 years.

2.3. Labour Force Participation Rate

The 2014 Census shows that the proportion of the population in the labour force among those aged between 15 and 64 years was 67.0 per cent. The proportion of males in the labour force is much higher (85.2%) than that of females (50.5%). There is a noticeable regional variation as shown in Table 3. The unemployment rates are highest in Rakhine (10.4%) and Kayin States (7.5%). The unemployment rates are particularly low in Shan State, Kayah State and in Nay Pyi Taw Union Territory. There are also variations by urban and rural areas as well as by sex as shown in Table 3.

The labour force participation rate by age group among males remains almost linear between the age of 25 and 49 years, while the rate for women starts to gradually decline from age 20 onwards, which may be attributed to women leaving the labour force due to marriage, childbearing, or childcare (Figure 4). The participation rates were higher in rural areas than in urban areas at all ages (Table 3). The pattern of participation rates for Union and in rural areas is quite similar; this could be due to the fact that over 71 per cent of people that are economically active were in rural areas.

2.4. Employment-to-Population Ratio

The census information further shows that the proportion of employed persons among persons aged 15 to 64 years is 64.4 per cent. The employment-to-population ratio is much higher for males at 81.9 per cent than for females at 48.4 per cent. Females who were reported to be doing household work were over 38.8 percent compared to 1.2 per cent amongst males. Figure 5 illustrates the employment-to-population ratio for males and females, by age group.

Figure 5: Employment-to-population ratio, males and females aged 15 years and over

2.5. Unemployment Rate

The information provided by households during enumeration showed that the unemployment rate for Myanmar at the time of the census was 4.0 per cent for the population aged between 15 and 64 years. Unemployment rates for males and females were almost similar at 3.9 per cent and 4.1 per cent, respectively. The unemployment rate was much higher than the Union average among young people (aged 15-29) at 7.7 per cent.

Figure 6: Unemployment rate, males and females aged 15 years and over

2.6. Occupation of employed persons

The proportion of employed persons aged 15 and over by occupation was highest in “Skilled Agricultural Forestry and Fishery Workers” (42.9%), followed by “Elementary occupations” (16%) and “Service and sales worker” (12.8%). “Craft and related trade workers” was also high, reportedly employing 11.7 per cent of employed persons. Analysis by sex shows that “Skilled Agricultural Forestry and Fishery Workers” is the main occupation with a higher proportion of males (46.1%) than females (38.2%). The second largest occupation of females is “Services and Sales Workers” (18.4%) while for males it is “Elementary Occupations” (16.8%), followed by “Craft and Related Trades Workers” (12.5%).

All people in institutions were enumerated using a separate institution questionnaire that did not contain questions on occupation and industry. The institutions where the questions on occupation and industry were not asked included: i) Hospitals and rehabilitation centres, including children’s hospitals and psychiatric hospitals; ii) Hotels, motels, guesthouses and inns; iii) Police cells/lock ups, military and police barracks; iv) Religious centres, including monasteries and convents; v) Old people’s homes and orphanages; vi) Boarding schools; vii) Institutions for people with disabilities; viii) Prisons and other penal institutions; and ix) Camps/hostels for workers. It is not possible to report the occupation and industry of people enumerated in these institutions.

Among males the second highest industry was “Wholesale, retail trade and repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles” at 7.2 per cent, followed by “Construction” at 6.8 per cent. For females, the second highest industry was also “Wholesale, retail trade and repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles” at 12.6 per cent, followed by “Manufacturing” (9.7%); then “accommodation and food service activities” (7%).

Examining the sex composition of employed persons aged 15 and over by industry, shows that the proportion of males exceeds 80 per cent in five groups, “Agriculture forestry and fishing” (55.4%), “Wholesale and retail trade; repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles” (7.2%), “Construction” (6.8%), “Transportation and storage” (6.4%) and “Manufacturing” (4.9%). The proportion of females also exceeds 80 per cent in five groups, “Agriculture forestry and fishing” (47.4%), “Wholesale and retail trade; repair of motor vehicles and motorcycles” (12.6%), “Manufacturing” (9.7%), “Accommodation and food service activities” (7%) and “Education” (3.9%). This information is summarized in Table 5.

According to the census data, almost half of the population aged 10 years and over is employed in agriculture forestry and fishing, amounting to over 11 million of a total of 21 million reporting to being employed. Most of those employed in agriculture forestry and fishing were based in Shan, Ayeyawady and Sagaing.

Annex 2: Definitions and Concepts

This section contains definitions of census terms and provides explanations which may be required to understand the census results in this publication. Most definitions included here are based on the questions in the census questionnaires and on the methodology applied in the various phases of the census process. The main concepts and definitions are detailed below.

Population: The population in this report corresponds to the de-facto population of Myanmar on Census Night (see below).

Census Enumeration: The process of visiting every household and interviewing the head of the household or the most responsible member of a household in order to determine the number and characteristics of all persons and households in the country at a given time. The collection of this information is carried out through the completion of questionnaires for every conventional household and every institution.

Census Enumeration Area (EA): A Census Enumeration Area (EA) is a geographic unit down to the ward level in urban areas, and the village tract level in rural areas, into which the whole country was divided for census purposes. For each EA an enumerator was deployed to undertake the enumeration within the census period. An EA contained on average 120 households.

Census Night: The night between the 29th and the 30th March 2014. Every person in Myanmar was enumerated where they spent the Census Night.

De-Facto Census: The de-facto census method enumerates persons at the place where they spend the Census night. The census enumeration could also be carried out using a De jure approach where people are enumerated in their usual or legal place of residence. Although each approach has its own advantages and disadvantages, the de facto approach is easier to implement, it is closer to the reality of daily life and mitigates the possibility of omission and duplication. The 2014 MPHC was conducted based on the de facto approach.

Conventional Household: A conventional household includes one or more persons who are either related or unrelated and share living quarters (single quarter or compound) and meals. The household members would be eating food prepared from the same cooking pot. In most cases, there would be one person acknowledged by the household members as the head of the household.

Institutional Household: An institutional household is a unit where a group of people are living together but it is not a conventional household. Examples include: old-people's homes, orphanages, hospitals, boarding schools, hotels, hostels and guest houses, institutions for persons living with disabilities, prisons, monasteries, convents, military and police barracks, and camps for workers.

Head of household: The head of a conventional household is the household member who makes key decisions and is recognized as the head of the household by others. The head of the household may be male or female. The person is not necessarily primarily responsible for earning the livelihood for the household. In the 2014 Myanmar Population and Housing Census, if the head of the household was not present on Census Night, the next most responsible member was reported as the de facto head.

Relationship to the Head of Household: Household members are defined by their relationship to the head of household (e.g. spouse, child, sister, brother).

Rural area: Areas classified by the General Administration Department (GAD) as village tracts. Generally these are areas with low population density and a land use which is predominantly agricultural.

Urban area: Areas classified by the GAD as wards. Generally these areas have an increased density of building structures, population and better infrastructural development.

Age: Number of years a person has lived at their last birthday in reference to the Census Night. When the age was not known, interviewers were trained to use other ways of establishing the age of the respondent, including calendars of events, conversion tables, etc. The interpretation of age information is given below:

- a. The 0 (less than 1) year olds are those whose age is less than one year.
- b. The 1 year olds are those aged 1 year or more but less than 2 years.
- c. The 0 - 4 year age group are those aged less than 5 years.
- d. The 5 - 9 year age group are those aged 5 years and more but less than 10 years.
- e. The group 90+ are those aged 90 years or older.

Labour Force Status: According to the type of usual economic activities during the 12 months before Census Night, all persons 10 years of age and over were classified as follows.

Labour Force: The Labour force is a general term covering “employed” and “unemployed” persons in the population.

Employed: “Employed” persons refers to those who did any work during the time of the week before the census date or worked for more than 6 months in the 12 months before the census date for pay or profit, such as a wage, salary, allowance, business profit, etc. Also included in this category were persons working in a family business, on a farm, in a store, in a private hospital etc., even if they were not paid any wages.

Unemployed: “Unemployed” persons refer to those who had no work but were able to work and actually seeking a job during the reference period, or at the time of the census enumeration.

Not in labour force: This category was made up of persons who had no work and did not make any positive effort to find a job during the six months before the census date or were unable to work. This included full-time students, household work, elderly people, etc.

Employment Status: All employed persons were classified according to the economic activity status in the place where they worked during the last 12 months, or if they worked in more than one place, where they worked the most time.

a) Employment categories included:

[1] Employee (Government): those employed and working for the government, including state organization institutions.

[2] Employee (Private organization): those employed and working for private employers or private organizations. All people in private companies, non-governmental organizations, international organizations, retail and wholesale enterprises fell under this category.

[3] Employer: persons who during the reference period worked in their own business, which also employed one or more other persons.

[4] Own account worker: self-employed persons who worked in their own business or worked in their own/family business for family gain and did not have any employees.

[5] Unpaid family worker: persons who worked in a business, farm, trade or professional enterprise operated by a member of the household/family and received no pay.

b) The not employed, but available for work included:

[6] Sought Work: a person who in the reference period was actively looking for work. This category did not include people who were working but wished to leave for better opportunities. Persons who had no work at all and were looking for work fell under this category. If a person was working on a family holding but seeking work, she/he was captured as “contributing family worker” and not as “seeking work”. This category included only persons who were available for full-time work and hence were actively looking for it.

c) Not employed and not available for work included:

[7] Did not seek work: a person who was not working nor looking for work, but may or may not have taken up a job if offered one.

[8] Full-time student: a person who was attending a regular educational institution (primary, secondary, college, university etc.) and hence was not available for work. If, for instance, a student was studying part-time during the better part of the reference period and was engaged in gainful employment, she/he was captured as employed.

[9] Household work: this included a person of either sex involved in household chores in her/his own home, for example fetching water, cooking, babysitting, etc., who did not work for pay or profit or seek work. This category did not include employed houseboys/girls who fell under category [2]. If such a person worked on a family holding without pay they were coded as [5].

[10] Pensioner, retired, elderly person: a person who reported that during more than half of the previous 12 months, she/he was not engaged in any economic activity because she/he had retired either due to age, sickness or voluntarily.

[11] Ill, Disabled: a person who could not work due to some form of disability or illness. Persons living with disabilities who were working were recorded appropriately. For example, a blind person who was in waged employment was included under category [2] and not [11]. Similarly a person living with a physical disability working on a family holding without pay was captured under category [5].

[12] Other: a person whose economic activity status did not fit into any of the definitions outlined above.

Labour force participation rate: The labour force participation rate is the ratio between the labour force and the overall size of the total population of the same age range. This is an important indicator as it portrays the proportion of the population that is economically active.

Unemployment rate: The percentage of the total labour force that is unemployed but actively seeking employment and willing to work. These are people who are without work, looking for jobs and available for work.

Employment-to-population ratio: A statistical ratio that measures the proportion of the country’s working-age population (ages 15 to 64) that is employed. The International Labour Organization states that a person is considered employed if they have worked for at least one hour in “gainful” employment in the most recent week.

Dependency ratio: The total dependency ratio is the ratio of dependents (people younger than 15 years and older than 64) to the population of working age (age 15-64 years). Data are shown as the proportion of dependents per 100 working-age population. Three different measures can be calculated: total dependency ratio, child dependency ratio and old age dependency ratio.

Occupation: Occupation refers to the kind of work an employed person did in the establishment during the 12 months (reference period) before the census date. Put differently, occupation is the kind of work done during the last 12 months by the person employed, regardless of the industry of the establishment.

In the 2014 Myanmar Census, field data collectors were instructed to collect a detailed description of the work being done such as accounts clerk, data entry operator (clerk), legal secretary, domestic worker, fisherman, human resource manager, etc. If an employed person was engaged in two or more jobs, the kind of work was decided by the work in which he/she was mainly engaged in, that is in terms of time. The occupational classification is based on the ISCO 2008.

Industry: Industry refers to the main activity of the establishment where an employed person usually worked during the 12 months (reference period) before the census date. In the 2014 Myanmar Census, industry was explained to the enumerators as the type of economic activity carried out at the person's place of work. It is defined in terms of the kind of goods produced or services supplied by the enterprise in which the person works and not necessarily the specific duties or functions of the person's job. For example, a clerical officer working in stores within a factory that makes television sets. The industry should be recorded as manufacture of electrical goods. If an employed person worked in two or more establishments, "industry" was decided by the establishment where he/she worked most. The industrial classification is based on the ISIC Revision 4.
